MR. WYATT AIKEN ON COTTON SITUATION

LOOKS FOR HIGHER PRICES ON SOUTH'S STAPLE PRODUCT

CHANCES BETTER

For Higher Prices and Dangers Fewer—Reviews Crop Conditions in United States.

Abbeville, July 28.

Editor Daily Mail: I have your letter asking me for an expression of opinion as to the course cotton should take to maintain an open market with neutrals, for the cotton crop.

Let me say in the outset that the stand the president has taken in his preliminary note to England, demanding free trade with neutrals in noncontraband, which cotton has been declared to be, will in my judgment, find favorable response with a large majority of the members of congress.

The proposition of English financiers to purchase from American exporters $150,000,000 worth of cotton that would normally go to Germany, Austria and Hungary, and $25,000,000 worth that would normally go to Holland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland, and allow the English government to declare cotton to be absolute contraband, is but an insidious proposal for England to take our crop at her own figures. The amount England financiers would thus spend would buy about 3,000,000 bales of cotton, which is far below even her normal supply of cotton; for she has bought for the eleven months just closed 3,712,502 bales. Her purchase for the year will easily exceed four million bales.

If English financiers will buy the 3,000,000 bales of her normal supply, and agree to hold the surplus of the market during the continuance of the war, or to be used by the government only for the manufacture of explosives, this country might suspend action on an English order in council making cotton contraband, but certainly not otherwise.

Contrary to predictions by the prophets of evil the demand for cotton has not been decreased as an effect of the war, but on the contrary it has been enhanced. Despite English aggression at sea even Germany and Austria have taken more than their normal supply of cotton, indirectly through neutral ports, and in shipping to those ports we have violated no law of neutrality.

Even if the war continues the demand for cotton will increase. It is estimated that 300,000 shells were fired in one day in the battle north of Arras on June 17th. The largest of these shells consumes 372 pounds of cotton for each exploded. There were probably over 100,000 bales of cotton consumed in this battle alone. Then, all available labor is being used in the manufacture of tents and uniforms for the soldiers. It is conceded that if the war should close the demand for cotton would soar into new high levels.

If the United States government can prevent England from taking over the present surplus and the new crop, at her own figures, there is every reason to believe that cotton will sell for more during the next twelve months than it has sold for since the American civil war. Either the cotton exchanges are not informed as to conditions affecting the cotton crop, or are assuming that the growers are not informed and are trying to effect a corner while prices are absurdly low.

As bearing on this question, it will probably not be amiss to give some figures. For those touching on the consumption of fertilizer I am indebted to the enterprise of the publicist at Clemson College.

In 1914, eight cotton growing states, not including Texas and Oklahoma, used 4,311,000 tons of commercial fertilizer. In 1915 these same states use 2,636,000 tons; a falling off of 11 per cent, and the grade was much lower than of the previous year.

In Texas and Oklahoma rainfall during the growing season has been heavier than in years, and the ravages of the boll weevil have been proportionately greater. A conservative citizen of Oklahoma who formerly lived in Greenbush county, this state, informs me that the crop in Oklahoma in sections may be short of normal by 40 per cent.

In 1914 there were approximately fifteen thousand mules shipped into South Carolina. In 1915 there were only about fifteen hundred shipped into this state. While we have no data as to the number of mules and horses shipped out of the state to the war zone, it would be safe to say that several thousand would not be an excessive estimate. However, the cotton bear may ignore it, decreased horse power means decreased acreage and decreased cotton production. I will not go into the estimated reduction of cotton acreage planted to corn and grain further than to say that in South Carolina any man who has traveled over the state knows that the figures published by the New York cotton exchange are ridiculous by law. It is not likely that South Carolina stands alone in these evidences that forebadow the shortest crop this country will be short in years. The new crop will be short; it will fall far short of 12,000,000 bales. So much for the American supply.

It is said that there is a red insect, if possible more destructive to cotton than the boll weevil, and that the crop in India is being literally destroyed by this insect.

While I would favor, as I did in the last congress, any measure that will enable the south to gradually market the cotton crop. I am frank to say that I do not believe the danger is as grave now as then, if the earlier days of the market can be tidied over without the producer taking fright at the made-to-order scares with which the cotton gamblers are so ready.

The president can force England to allow our cotton the freedom of neutral ports, and this will make it easier for Germany, who we cannot force, to accept our demands. If cotton is allowed this freedom prices will surely be satisfactory, for the law of supply and demand affecting this crop will be just the reverse of that affecting the 1914 crop.

President Wilson is right in his attitude toward both Germany and England in demanding freedom of the seas and congress will stand square behind him.

Respectfully,
Wyatt Aiken.

New Achievements in the Moving-Picture Field.

Two ingenious developments in the art of motion-picture projection have recently been made which may add somewhat to the spectators' pleasure as well as broaden the playfield. Each achievement, while in a manner related to the other, is different both in purpose and means of execution. One makes it possible to show a film in a sun-filled room, while the other enables pictures to be displayed in open air at night under the full glare of powerful electric lights. Both methods are fully described in the August Popular Mechanics Magazine.

TAKE SALTS FOR THE KIDNEYS IF YOUR BACK HURTS

We Should Drink Lots of Water and Eat Less Meat, Says Noted Authority on Kidney Disorders

Recommends a Spoonful of Jad Salts In Glass of Water Before Breakfast to Stimulate Kidneys and Eliminate the Uric Acid

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy, the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from headache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

• Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

THE WILD GOOSE CHASE.

Miss Ina Claire, one of the youngest and most beautiful of all Broadway stars, makes her moving picture debut in Jesse L. Lasky's pictorialization of Wm. C. De Mille's romantic comedy, "The Wild Goose Chase," which is to be the offering at the Bijou today. The event is of unusual importance, as Miss Claire, because of her youth and charm, should easily become one of the foremost photodramatic favorites of the country.

It must be understood that Miss Claire has no intention of abandoning the legitimate stage entirely for the screen. She will play her customary Broadway engagements but, when not thus engaged, will appear for the screen, working entirely under the Lasky management.

Ina Claire was born in Washington, D. C. and educated there at Holy Cross Academy. She made her first professional appearances in vaudeville, doing songs and imitations. Her initial regular engagement was with Richard Carle in "Jumping Jupiter."

Miss Claire was first brought prominently to the attention of the New York public on the occasion of the opening of the Folies Bergere, of which Jesse Lasky was the creative genius. She was one of the leading entertainers, and the hit that she made there was responsible for her engagement in the title role of "The Quaker Girl," a success which literally brought her fame and fortune.

After the long-continued success of "The Quaker Girl," Miss Claire appeared for a time at the Winter Garden and then went to London, where she was seen at the Adelphi in "The Girl from Utah." Last Spring she co-starred in London with Sam Bernard in "The Belle of Old Street," her vogue in the English metropolis becoming greater than ever.

Miss Claire's most recent Broadway stellar engagement was in the title role of "Lady Luxury" at the Casino Theatre in New York City.

SULPHUR DRIES UP ECZEMA AND STOPS ITCHING

This old time skin healer is used just like any cold cream.

Sulphur, says a renowned dermatologist, just common hold-sulphur made into a thick cream will soothe and heal the skin when irritated and broken out with Eczema or any form of eruption. The moment it is applied all itching ceases and after two or three applications the Eczema disappears, leaving the skin clear and smooth.

He tells Eczema sufferers to get from any good pharmacy an ounce of hold-sulphur and apply it to the irritated parts the same as you would any cold cream.

For many years common hold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the practice of dermatology and cutaneous affections by reason of its parasite-destroying property. It is not only parasiticidal, but also antipruritic, antiseptic and remarkably healing in all irritable and inflammatory conditions of the skin. While not always effecting a permanent cure it never fails to instantly subdue the angry itching and irritation and heal the Eczema right up and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin.
